To the owners of Royal Home Products:

You should be very proud of the way you run your business, the employees that work for you and of course, your products.

I had another company work on my house about 4 years ago and they ruined it. Since then I was afraid I would never find anyone capable enough to work on my house again.

My house had been deteriorating to the point where I had to do something. I came into your showroom looking for doors for my house and I met Cesar who told me you also do siding. I had been getting other estimates, but I felt comfortable with your company because you took my fears away and assured me you did quality work. I hired your company and I am so glad that I did.

The way my house looks now after your company did my siding and doors, has taken so much pressure off me and made me so happy. The main goal of all your employees who worked on my house was to satisfy the customer and that is exactly what they did beyond my expectations.

I know that I am a hard person to work for because I know what I want and I want perfection. That is what I paid for and that is exactly what I got. I feel that if your company can satisfy me, then they can satisfy anybody.

You are welcome to bring prospective customers to my house and show off your fine work.

Sincerely,

Alan Dice
